

Archery Hunting at Chena Lake Recreation Area

General Rules

- Hunters must comply with all ADF&G hunting regulations
- Hunters must be at least 50 yards away from any established path, trail, parking area or road while engaged in hunting activities (not to include travel to and from hunting area). These are known as “buffer” areas.
- The remains of any animal taken shall not be left within 100 yards of any established path, trail, parking area or road.
- Upon successfully taking an animal, it is the hunters’ responsibility to notify the Chena Lake Manager, or Chena Lake staff, of the exact location of the animals remains to verify that it is not within the buffer area. If the animals’ remains are within 100 yards of any established path, trail, parking area or road, it will be the hunters’ responsibility to remove or discard any remains from the area.
